President's Message

President's Message

May 2019

Hello Members,

Hopefully your year so far has been a blessed one. It seems to be flying by for us here at High Desert Equine Center. Our foals are all health, and growing up fast. It is a joy to see them running around, and playing in the paddocks. Soon the heat of summer will be upon us, and shade will become a necessity for human and animal alike. Especially during the show season with your Curlies. Make sure you have enough water for them on hand, and bathing after a class is helpful for their cool down. Also never, and I say never, ever share a bucket or anything else from a horse you don't know. Many horse might not look sick at all, and when you get home boom, your horse gets a fever and snotty nose. YUK!!!

Well, so much for my preaching, advice is always free here at the American Bashkir Curly Registry. If you or your fellow members need some, feel free to call any of the board members with questions or concerns. We are there to help and if the phone call is not answered please email any of us.

Our Convention call is coming up this fall and we will hopefully be having another call-in for members interested in attending the call. We will be posting the date and time and information for the call-in on the ABC website and also in the next Curly Cues in August. If any members have issues which they want discussed during this call or before please email me at jo_curlies@hotmail .com.

Curly Wishes,

Joan Olson

ABC President

NEWS CORNER

CURLY COAT GENES

By Dr. Mitch Wilkinson

(We wish to thank Dr. Wilkinson for coming to the ABCR convention and giving us so much wonderful information! I hope I took good notes, and got his information right.)

There are 3 types of curly genes that are most common today. We will discuss them later. There is one type that has become extinct already-the Pendleton gene (this horse did not lose its curls in summer). There are 2 types that are rare, and not seen in any ABCR or ICHO horse today.

The curly genes identified so far have different effects on the horse. They can also be mixed, meaning curly horses can have one, or both types.

We are going to try to explain some differences. Take a sentence for example: The cat ate the rat. If we change a “c” to a “k”, it becomes ‘The kat ate the rat’. Not much difference in meaning, just spelling. But change the ‘r’ to a ‘b’, and it becomes ‘the cat ate the bat’. A totally different meaning.

The names of these 2 most common genes is KRT25 and SP6. So far, these types have been seen only in horses of US origin. The one horse that has been identified as having both is Renegait Chesterfield, owned by Angie Gaines.

Most curlies today have the KRT25, (Actually, it is a mutated KRT25. All horses have a KRT25, but the curly horses have a mutated type. Thus the changing of the ‘r’ in rat to ‘b’ in bat.) If homozygous for it, you see what is commonly referred to as an ‘extreme’, coarse hair, no tail, no mane. If heterozygous, they will have mane and tail, but still very easily lost if pulled on. This gene could have mutated in a DNA strand anywhere from 100-thousands of years ago. The hair is curly due to the hair follicle being curved. As the hair grows, it comes out curly.

SP6 is found mostly in the Curly Jim line. Besides having curl, they also have thick manes and tails. This gene affects the hair follicle by turning it into an oval shape. The more the shape, the curlier the hair.

KRT25 is epistatic to SP6 (KRT 25 overrides SP6).

Some curly horses don’t have either, and this is where the new discoveries need to happen. These unknown genes are endangered, and can be lost if lines of horses disappear and their genes aren’t/can’t be studied. One of these is the Sulphur horse. There are only 2 known Sulphur curly horses. They don’t have KRT25 or SP6, yet are curly. And their line is almost gone.

CURLY CUES

CURLY COAT GENES

The Cook gene is another rare, unidentified gene. They also do not have KRT25 or SP6, yet show the curly coat. There are some out there, but tests still need to be done to identify their curly gene, and how it works. Cook was a neighbor of Damele's, so it is possible horses of the Damele lines could have the unknown Cook gene.

Listed below are horses who may have the Cook gene. If you have, or know of someone who has a horse listed, or a progeny from it, please ask them to contact Dr. Wilkinson, and get hair to him, for testing. The list is below, as well as contact information. If the horse is on this list, Dr. Wilkinson will pay for the testing. If not, the owner will have to pay for the testing.

Ravishing Beauty ABC#?????

Copper Majic ABC# 1162

Lacy Lady ABC# 2325

There are other curly horses in the world without the KRT25, SP6, Sulphur, or Cook lines. Dr. Wilkinson and Dr. Gus Cothran are hoping to be able to eventually get samples and test them for their curly genes.

The Zabaikalskaya Curly Coated Horse

Article adapted from: Masterok.zhzh.rf “Want to know everything” and a report of the Chita SLC by Tatjana Pankova.

By Dr. Mitch Wilkinson

The Zabaikalskaya horse is an aboriginal breed of horse bred by the steppe nomads since the first millennium BC. This breed preserves the blood of their wild ancestors and, along with it, their unique characteristics which are valuable from a biological, conservational, and economic perspective. Even though not large in stature, horses of this breed are remarkable for their stamina. They are perfectly adapted to year-round herd keeping under the extreme conditions of the southern Siberian climate in which they reside.

These horses are undemanding to feed, tireless in work, and especially adept under saddle.

The Zabaikalskaya Curly Coated Horse

When one considers the features of the breed and historical data associated with it, the Zabaikalskaya breed has Mongolian roots, originating from the Transbaikalia (Chiginskaya region).

MONGOLIAN CURLY COATED HORSE

Historically, some of the horses of this breed have curly winter hair, not only on the head, but also throughout the body. The curly coat trait occurs at the rate of around 10% in the population. This feature is found in other rare breeds of horses in other countries. The Zabaikalskaya curly-like equines continue to evolve to this day.

The Zabaikalskaya horse history reaches far into antiquity. In those ancient times, a method was found for taming and breeding domestic, aboriginal horses. Amazingly, to this day, the blood of these animals has retained all the genetic material from that distant time and is still relatively pure.

Sonny's Story

Hello! My name is Crystal Welsh and I am the lucky owner of an amazing Curly gelding. I just wanted to share with the registry a little about my amazing 1/2 Bashkir Curly Horse. His registered ABC name is "Thunder'g Silver Son" aka Sonny. I have owned Sonny since his birth from my Morgan mare in 1998. He has been an amazing partner over many years of showing, trail rides and just good ol' equine love! We started Sonny in Western Dressage just over 3 years ago and he has just excelled in this discipline.

This year my 12 year old niece rode him in a multitude of Western Dressage shows. We just received our State Affiliated Awards! Sonny and Cailyn (my young niece) took Reserve Highpoint Champion for the State of Illinois in Introductory level Western Dressage. We also took this lovely pair up to the Western Dressage World Show in Oklahoma this past October 2018. Sonny was awarded 10th overall High Point Champion in the World for Introductory Level Western Dressage. She earned 2 tenth place awards and a 8th in very large classes! I as well showed him in one introductory Level test at the World's and received 4th place out of 36 riders! As well, in the local shows he has taken multiple High Score Awards and 2 Grand Champion Highpoint Awards-one in Introductory Level Dressage and one for Overall Youth Highpoint Champion. I just wanted to brag a little about our wonderful curly boy! Even at 20 years old he is still highly motivated and LOVES to show!
